One magnificent evening, the 30th July (that is to say, after our departure), the frigate was abreast of Cape Horn, a few miles to leeward of the coast of Patagonia. We had crossed the tropic of Capricorn, and the Straits of Magellan opened seven hundred miles to the south. Before eight days the Abraham Lincoln would be ploughing the waters of the Pacific. When activating the “small caps” option, lowercase letters will be transformed in small capitals and lining figures in oldstyle figures. You can also access the “all small caps” option on the OpenType panel that will also transform uppercase letters. The height and spacing of the punctuation is automatically adapted when you select the “all caps” or “small caps” option.

The default setting for figures is the lining set. Tabular figures have an identical width and are useful for the composition of charts. You can access the others sets on the OpenType panel. An alternate slashed zero is available for all sets. Height corrected currency and mathematical symbols are automatically activated on all sets of figures.
